

FT239_HW_0003 SUNLIGHT

This very strong geometry uses a precise palette of colors. Typical of Liz Roache's colors studies, the beauty of this work lies in the gradation of yellow as it runs through the orange bars. These precise percentages used by the artist in printing is converted into the number of wool yarns gradually blended with silk threads. Tufted by hand, a fine carving effect is then made to highlight the junction of the colored blocks.
