

F3252001 LE CHANT DE TIDORE

Bird songs and cries are the background for a stop on the Island of Tidore, an Indonesian refuge for cockatoos. This is a re-edition of a creation designed for Pierre Frey by Jean-Denis Malclès in the forties. It is characteristic of the naturalist movement that took hold in decoration at the time in reaction to the decline of Art Deco. This colorful, swirling composition expresses joy and happiness in a tropical setting.
